also tried to downplay the alleged power-sharing formula today saying that the party never spoke about the 2.5-year formula and it was just a media speculation. But his buoyant supporter refused to buy the explanation offered by both sides.

Does this jubilation mean that Baghel is on his way out and a much-talked-about change of guard is in the offing? Perhaps this is the tricky track where no Congress leader is ready to venture. Not even the CM aspirant T S Singh Deo who until now did not utter even a single word on the contentious issue and the alleged formula.

Assembly speaker Dr. Charan Das Mahant is the only leader to have admitted openly that a 2.5-year formula was reached between Singh Deo and Baghel during the rat race for the top job in the Delhi in December 2018.

The tension brewing between the two factions for a long time, spilled out in the open when Congress MLA

The first day of an all-India convention of farmers that began at the Singhu border here on Thursday focussed on expanding the protest against three agriculture laws of the Centre all over the country.

The two-day convention that marks the completion of nine months of the farmers' agitation against the three contentious laws was inaugurated by Bharatiya Kisan Union (BKU) leader Rakesh Tikait. "It is sad that even after nine months, the govern-

Delegates from 22 states representing 300 farmer and agricultural workers' unions and associations, 18 all-India trade unions, nine women's organisations and 17 student and youth organisations are participating in the convention. The convention also paid homage to the farmers who lost their lives while participating in the agitation.

Modi has called upon his top officials in charge of various development projects in the country to ensure 'timely completion' of these projects. PM's call to officials in charge of major development projects worth Rs 1,26,000 crore across 14 states came in the course of 37th meeting of PRAGATI, an Information Communication Technology-based multi-model platform aimed at providing pro-active governance and timely implementation of projects.
